

Privacy Policy

As a responsible digital marketing organization, we are dedicated to uphold a consolidated privacy policy for all our clients. We only collect personal information when you grant us the permission by contacting us or registering with the site. As a digital marketing service provider, we collect private credentials like cell phone number, address, name as and when required. In certain circumstances, if you upload and archive information, we accumulate it for future correspondence.

Webpage FX uses personal information for several purposes including advertising and content customization, client contact and researches, request implementation for services and products and client reporting both external and internal.

Information Sharing and Disclosure

As an autonomous organization, T S Web Technologies stringently declines the practises of selling, renting and sharing personal facts with unauthorized & debarred business entities or anonymous individuals, apart from offering services and products on request, only when we have the legitimate permissions under the following circumstances:-

- We enthusiastically respond to legal subpoenas, actions and court orders with an objective to establish or exercise our legal rights while shielding a particular legal claim.

- Sharing information is something that we consider highly crucial because that helps to investigate, prevent and undertake necessary actions against illegal activities & suspected fraud or any other random illegal activity that presents potential threats to the safety and security of an individual, infringement of the company's terms of use as predetermined by the law concerned.
- We strictly refrain from disclosing highly confidential credit card information and we strictly abide by the payment guidelines proposed by Visa, MasterCard, Amex, Discover and Paypal.

Service Terms and Conditions, Concerned Notices and Revisions

Once you consider opting for the services offered by T S Web Technologies, then the visit to the website and other disputes associated with the privacy policy will be subject to the service terms and conditions. This notice includes every necessary restriction on successive damages, settlement of disputes and the jurisdiction of the law of India. For further questions and queries regarding the privacy policy of T S Web Technologies, do not hesitate to send a detailed report of the same to sales@tswebtechnologies.com. We will make every necessary effort to clarify all your queries and provide you with necessary information and guidance. Our business policies and agendas are subject to changes, thus, the conditions and terms of the notice and the terms of use are also subject to revisions. Checking the website at regular intervals will help you to be aware of the necessary changes that take place down the line.

Copyright Policy

TS Web Technologies owns legitimate photo licences and copyrights from external image providers which lawfully covers every digital imagery and transcript of documents used in www.tswebtechnologies.com . The other related site contents indexes are covered by copyright extensions owned by TS Web Technologies.

Restricted Use

It is duly stated that the visitors of the site shall not breach the company copyright policies by unlawfully reproducing, distributing, copying, downloading and selling any copyright protected image, documents and content of the website. To avoid even the slightest chances of doubt, we do not provide any authorized permission for the transfer of any website material to an open internet website. For any queries and permissions you can contact us on sales@tswbtechnologies.com. In order to restrict the chances of forgery and supervise the prospective violating actions against our privacy policies, we monitor the web regularly.

Links

The external sites linked to the respective website of TS Web Technologies, has not been reviewed and authorized by us, thus we do not undertake any responsibility for the contents of any such linked sites. The forced inclusion or generation of a link does not necessarily imply any forced approval or endorsement done by the company. Uninformed use of any such illegally linked website is at the users or visitor's own risk.